

2009 LOVELAND STONE AGE FAIR

BIOGRAPHY

Dr. Pegi Jodry

Field Director, Paleoindian and Paleoecology Program
Smithsonian Institution

Title of Talk: Sacred Perspectives from Horn Shelter

Art, ceremony and spiritual beliefs imbue native traditions from paleolithic times to the present honoring the natural world and connecting humans within it. How often do we admire the beauty of Paleoindian points and recognize them as functional art? In addition to the resonance and power of these objects, several archeological sites including Horn Shelter in Texas, Jones-Miller in Colorado, and Monte Verde in Chile provide insights into paleoindian world views.

